Deafness Cannot be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars free. F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, O. Sold by Druggists, The Take Hall's Family Pills for constipation.

WELL, Marse HENRY will not do any quarreling over the gate receipts.

Old General Apathy will now go on the retired list.

Miss Democracy is now playing in "The Merry Widow."

ROOSEVELT is no adept at President making as he is at peace making.

His name is WILLIAM JENNINGS BRYAN, but we'll now call him "Dennis" for short.

MR. BRYAN should stick to the farm. Many a good farmer might be spoiled if elected President.

AMONG our after-election blessings, we now have the speechless can-di-date, and that helps some.

THEODORE ROOSEVELT is the Warwick of American history and will be known as the President maker.

MR. ROOSEVELT has solved the problem of what to do with our ex-Presidents by fixing to become an Editor. Presidents and Editors are in the same class.

The corporations, too, are generally in favor of some kind of regulation. In the present distrust of all corporations the inflated mind gives no credence to any statement that may emanate from a corporation, although the same mind will confidently accept an identical statement if issued from the office of a regulating commission which has proved itself trustworthy.

II.—Municipal Ownership and Private Operation.

Next after regulation comes the plan of serving the franchise rights by the city itself, which undertakes its own construction and rents out the right to operate. The rentals provide an adequate return for the use of the public domain, and the terms of the lease supply the desired features of regulation—a good service at a fair price.

It is claimed that this method retards development by preventing speculative construction, as the city must confine its energies to the so called legitimate finance. On the other hand, it is argued, the city ought to be able to indulge in speculative construction whenever the public welfare demands it.

The rapid transit subway in New York affords a good opportunity for studying the practical working of this plan.

III.—Municipal Ownership and Municipal Operation.

There are those, however, who cannot rest content with halfway measures. To these and to the politicians the idea of municipal operation is an appealing one. They point to the successful conduct of waterworks by the city and argue therefrom that a municipal street railway, for instance, would be just as successful. Perhaps it would be.

But success may be attained in a variety of ways, and the best success is that gained through economy. A city might furnish the purest of water, ample in quantity and sufficient in pressure, and yet an adequately regulated corporation would probably do this very thing more successfully because at lower rates.

Admitting the payment of the prevailing rate of wages and accepting the eight hour law in both cases and assuming adequate regulation of the corporation, it would seem to be a mere matter of arithmetic to prove why the municipality should not, as a rule, undertake the operation of its own utilities.

Suppose we consider the pros and cons:

City Operation.

Methods embarrassed by law.
Methods antiquated.
Methods nondirect: to increase the importance of officials.

Appointments of head men made as rewards for political service.

Appointments and dismissals of subordinates hampered by the civil service laws and by the exigencies of politics.

Many unnecessary or inefficient men carried on the payroll for political reasons.

Appropriations granted or withheld, largely for political reasons.

In many cases 50 per cent of a day's work accepted for a day's pay.

Honesty, sobriety, loyalty, willingness, energy, courtesy and tact command no better rating than the opposite qualities—the civil service certification of competency levels all.

Corporation Operation.

Methods chosen by the head men of the corporation.

Methods kept up to date.

Methods direct: to make the minimum amount of work.

Appointments of head men made for fitness.

Appointments and dismissals of subordinates at the will of their immediate superiors, who are responsible for results.

A few unnecessary or inefficient men carried on the payroll for political reasons.

Appropriations granted or withheld in accordance with sound business reasons.

Generally 100 per cent of a day's work demanded for a day's pay.

Honesty, sobriety, loyalty, willingness, energy, courtesy and tact command corresponding rewards in the shape of increase of salary or promotion or in the shape of a reputation which will attract the attention of other and more liberal employers.

An Overdose of M. O.

Wheeling, W. Va., has gone more deeply into municipal ownership than most cities of this country, owning, as it does, its own water, gas and electric plants. These plants have all been allowed to run down until they are desperately in need of repairs, and no fund has been set aside to balance this depreciation. Now the city finds that there is no ready market for its bonds, and as a result things are going from bad to worse until the people are forced to turn again to private enterprise, as shown by the following paragraph in the Municipal Journal and Engineer:

"Well drillers are finding a fruitful field in Wheeling at the present time as the result of the commendable efforts of public spirited men and women of the various wards. Physicians believe that the advent of so many wells will materially reduce the number of fever cases resulting from Ohio river water. The drilling of wells is paid for by subscriptions pledged by residents in the neighborhood."

The cost of the wells will not show in the report of the water department.

Mr. Taft could ask nothing better than that labor treat him as fairly as he has always treated labor.

Would Mr. Bryan be as careful in selecting cabinet members as he was in selecting a treasurer of his national committee?

PUBLIC UTILITIES.

City Versus Company Operation From an Engineer's Viewpoint.

Why Men Do Better and More Efficient Work For Private Employers Than For the Public—Public Control and Private Operation the True Solution.

By HUBERT S. WYNKOOP, M. E.

The pendulum has swung from apathy toward public utility corporations to an intense interest in curbing them—even to the extent of taking over their functions to be administered by the municipality. During the past few years a mass of argument and testimony on this question has been contributed by publicists, conservative and otherwise, and by demagogues, ignorant and otherwise. To this I add my quota, having had thirteen years' experience as a municipal engineer in close contact with the engineers of the public utility corporations.

"Public utilities" is a delightfully satisfying term on account of its vagueness, its definition depending largely upon the state of mind of the populace. For this reason it appeals to every one, be he interested in good government or bad, and it includes water, gas and electric works, street railways, telegraphs, telephones, ferries, push carts, markets, banks and even lotteries—according to the time and place.

Whatever may be the verdict as to the more doubtful activities, it seems to be pretty well agreed that the supplying of water, gas and electricity, street railway transportation and ferriage are public utilities and therefore require public "regulation" or "ownership."

In this nil of the people stand substantially on one platform—an adequate return for franchise privileges and a good service for a fair price. But as to ways and means opinions diverge widely.

Briefly as this platform may be stated, its fulfillment requires an elaborate knowledge of social economics, engineering, finance, law and local conditions. The solution of the problem may develop along one of three lines:

- I. Regulation.
- II. Municipal ownership and private operation.
- III. Municipal ownership and municipal operation.

I.—Regulation. When a community is the fortunate possessor of a regulating body composed of men of a high honor and intelligence the problem is solved for all those who are not seeking personal aggrandizement. In Massachusetts public utility stocks have become or are becoming a safe investment.

Theoretically regulation offers the maximum of result with the minimum of disturbance of existing conditions. Under wise laws, therefore, and in the hands of able men it holds itself less open to adverse criticism than either of the other methods.

A PROCLAMATION

Whereas, the people of our city have been led to purchase so-called remedies from which they have received no benefit whatever, and having thus wasted so much hard-earned money, it has come to pass that they know not what to believe.

Inasmuch as this unsatisfactory state of affairs exists, KNOW, THEREFORE, ALL PERSONS who are in need of such a medicine that we will supply them with VINOL on a POSITIVE GUARANTEE that if it does not succeed in benefiting them we will refund the entire amount of money paid us for it.

There is no one medicine that will cure everything, but there are some we know to be honest, reliable, and of great curative value. Such is VINOL; it is not a secret medicine,—just peptonate of iron, wine, and all the curative extractives of cod liver oil, combined. We are familiar with every particle of it, and KNOW that it should benefit every one who uses it.

Could any offer be more fair than this? You are ill; we offer you medicine which we believe will help you, and if it does not we will return your money. Is there anyone foolish enough not to accept this offer? You owe it to your family, to your friends, and yourself to try this medicine which we give you our pledge is a genuine cod liver and iron preparation of great merit.

We unhesitatingly recommend Vinol as a Body Builder and Strength Creator for Feeble Old People, Delicate Children, Frail Women, All Run Down Persons, and Those Needing a Good Tonic after the Grippe or any Severe Illness, and for Chronic Coughs, Colds and Bronchitis.

Do you think we could afford to lend our name to its praises, as we have been doing in the newspapers, if we did not know VINOL to be an honest and unusually valuable remedy for the ills for which it is prescribed? We certainly could not; we therefore ask you, our neighbors, friends and acquaintances to accept our assurances that this is a genuine offer, and that any and all persons who need a medicine of this character should feel a sense of security in accepting it.

You will absolutely be under no obligation to us whatever, if after you have tried one bottle of VINOL, and have not received any benefit, you have only to tell us so, and we will return the entire amount of money you paid us for it.

VINOL is an old and valuable remedy improved by modern science—tastes good and agrees with every one.

Call and get a bottle to-day. You won't be sorry.

JOHN C. PECOR, Druggist, Maysville.

You can get Vinol at the Leading Drug Store in every Town and City in this State.

THE ONLY CURE.

A Diagnosis of Economic Evils and a Prescription.

The Individual, Not the System, is Wrong—Personal Character and Sincere Intelligent Public Opinion Form
the One Effectual Remedy.

In considering the evils, unquestionably many and serious, of our present economic system there is apt to be a lack of discrimination between the evils that inhere in that system and those which, while existing under it, are not necessarily the product of it. The Socialist thus attributes to capitalism all the evils of civilization from poverty to prostitution. He ignores the individual characteristics which put the satisfaction of present desires before future welfare and which are in many cases responsible alike for the pauper and the prostitute. On the other hand, the economic stand refuses to acknowledge that part of the poverty and degradation is due to an unfair division of the product of the combination of labor and capital. Yet this unfairness is not an inherent factor of our capitalistic system any more than are unbridled appetites. Socialism will eradicate neither selfishness nor self-indulgence from human nature. In fact, by prescribing a remedy which does not reach the root of the disease it lessens the likelihood of remedying the real wrong.

Similarly in considering the evils, unquestionably many and serious, which have existed under corporate operation of public utilities there is apt to be a lack of discrimination between the evils which inhere in that system and those which are not necessarily the product of it. The municipal Socialist attributes to private ownership all the evils of public utilities, from the impertinence of the "hello girl" to a typhoid epidemic, with high prices and poor service ever in the foreground. He utterly ignores the facts which prove that these evils have no necessary relation to private ownership because they are equally in evidence under municipal ownership. The notorious impudence of the government telephone girls of Paris contrasts most unfavorably with the courtesy generally accorded to telephone users in New York. In the cities of more than 100,000 population in the United States the average typhoid death rate is slightly lower in the cities where there are water companies than in those in which the supply is under public management. And so every cause of complaint under private ownership can be paralleled by similar or worse conditions under public ownership. The latter will eradicate neither incompetence nor indifference to the general welfare. In fact, by prescribing a remedy which does not reach the root of the disease it postpones indefinitely the real cure.

What is the real cure? The bringing home to public utility companies of their responsibility to the public for good service at reasonable rates and, on the other hand, the convincing of the public that such companies are entitled to a fair return upon their investments and furthermore that the grafter in city council or state legislature who tries to levy tribute on these companies is a public enemy. How is this to be accomplished? By state boards of control, removed from local antagonisms and clothed with powers adequate to the protection of the public on the one hand and of the companies on the other. It is only about a year since the public utilities of New York and Wisconsin were placed under such control, yet already some corporations have been disciplined.

No permanent cure for economic evils can, however, come from such boards of control unless there is a general awakening to a higher type of civic consciousness and of individual integrity. In a large sense we are personally responsible for the economic conditions under which we live. So long as we worship wealth without regard to the methods of its acquisition we are silent partners of the men who get it dishonestly or by oppression. So long as we are negligent of the character of the men we choose to represent us politically we are parties to every graft game of our representatives. We don't need a new political system, but we do need a new sense of aggressive righteousness in politics and business alike. With the coming of that will come the remedying of the economic wrongs which give the Socialists their most effective arguments, and without it no system, whether socialistic or capitalistic, will be satisfying or stable.

Public opinion of the right sort is a tremendous power for good in both business and politics. It encourages and sustains the man who is honest, straightforward and fair and rebukes and defeats the man who seeks unworthy ends by unworthy means. But public opinion of the right sort is rare. It must be not only intelligent, but sincere, and its sincerity depends absolutely upon the character of the masses. Men who in small ways oppress or take advantage of others can not expect effective protest against the oppressive or unfair methods of great corporations. Men who willingly evade laws which inconvenience them in little ways form a poor support to public officials who are trying to enforce laws which affect the people in larger ways. The labor and political problems of this nation are dependent for their best solution in an intimate and personal way upon the individual characters and ethical ideals of the millions who make up the nation, and there is no way in which we can evade this personal responsibility.

Mrs. Edward Mitchell and mother, Mrs. Fall, of East Second street, returned home from a several weeks' visit in Lexington. Mr. Edward Fall, who underwent a surgical operation in that city some time ago, is convalescent and getting along nicely.

JUSTICE BREWER'S WARNING.

Today's Extravagance Too Often Paid by the Unwilling Future.

There is this important difference between public and private indebtedness: The individual may mortgage his home or other property, and if the purpose for which the mortgage is given proves a failure the property may be lost to him, and on his death his heirs simply receive so much less than they otherwise would. But the indebtedness casts no burden upon them. It may wipe out his entire property and they receive nothing. To that extent they may suffer, if a failure to inherit property can be called suffering.

But public indebtedness is of a different character. It does not wipe out property now existing, but it casts a burden upon the industries and toll of those who come after us. Interest and principal are met by taxes, and taxes continue from age to age until the debt is paid. They who come after us, who may receive little or no benefit from the debt, are called upon to contribute the proceeds of their labor to its payment.

In other words, while private indebtedness does not mortgage or encumber future industry and labor, public indebtedness does. And in piling up public indebtedness we too often forget that the future will have its burdens; that there will be demands upon it for expenditures. Improvements and conveniences corresponding to the life of that day will be needed. So that there is injustice in creating a public indebtedness for improvements which will be mainly available in our day and only to a slight degree of benefit to those who come after us. Indeed, generally speaking, it is fair to leave each generation to determine what amount of public burdens it will assume, and each should take care of its own public indebtedness. —Leslie's Weekly.

A Tale of Two Cities.

Richmond, Ind., is trying to compel a lighting company to put its wires under ground and at the same time is stringing its own lighting wires overhead in the same street. As the company's wires are no more dangerous or disfiguring than the city wires it is clearly a case of arbitrarily burdening a competitor with a heavy expense which the city plant avoids. This is corporation bailing, and of course involves a lawsuit for which the consumers will ultimately have to pay.

Calumet, Mich., recently revoked the franchise of its gas company and granted a new franchise permitting the company to charge more for its product. It did this after a careful investigation showed that the company could not make a reasonable profit at the price permitted by the old franchise. The consumers as well as the stockholders will ultimately profit by this, as they will of course get better service from a thriving than from a starving company.

Congests Population.

In an interview reported in the Oklahoma City Oklahoman Downie Stewart, a prominent barrister of Dunedin, New Zealand, made the following comparison between the public owned street railways of New Zealand and the systems of American cities:

"There we have to pay a uniform rate of 2 cents a mile and receive no transfers. You have a uniform rate for the city limits. The tendency of our system is to contract and congest the city district, while yours aids expansion. Our managers acknowledge that yours is the best way, but they say it is impossible to run a system under these conditions save where the city has reached a certain number of people. We have 80,000 population, and this is not considered sufficient."

Government Ownership of Telephones.

De Castellane in recent correspondence in a New York newspaper states that a telephone subscriber in Paris who thought that he had been treated with discourtesy by the exchange operators went to the government office to complain. On making his statement, which he did apparently with some indignation, he was seized by five male clerks and thrown out, his gray frock coat being torn in the scuffle, while the "hello girls" stood at the exchange windows and jeered. As names are given in the description of the incident, it is difficult to question the authenticity of the story, but what a curious light it throws on telephony in France!—Electrical World.

Graft Growing in England.

Ten public officials were recently convicted of grafting in London, all but one being sentenced to terms of imprisonment at hard labor. The severest sentence was passed on Alderman Hirst, who had been three times mayor of the London borough of Stepney. In summing up the judge stated that if the accused were guilty "the jury would be doing a public duty by finding such a verdict as would tend to stamp out the insidious growth of corruption in local municipal bodies."

The city council of Grand Lodge, Mich., has asked a private company to supply current for the city plant. This is done to avoid spending $10,000 to $15,000 in re-equipping the plant.

COMMON COLDS

Become a serious matter if neglected. Bronchitis, pneumonia, asthma, catarrh or consumption is the common result. Get rid of that cold at once by taking Williams & Co.'s White Pine Cough Syrup. With it the most obstinate coughs yield to its grateful, soothing action, and the rattling, persistent cough, often present in consumption, it gives prompt and sure relief. In the present in consumption, it gives the cold in a few hours and giving you a restful sleep. In the face of all these facts it is not a high priced remedy, but sells at 25c a bottle.

Deputy Sheriff Orcutt made his last round here Wednesday collecting taxes.

Prohibition will never become popular as long as the price of a glass of lemonade will buy two beers.

It seems from reading the papers some politicians manage to talk a great deal and say very little.

Bowman, Degman and Cole of Croxton Post, G. A. R., attended the Seventieth Ohio Reunion at West Union, O., last week.

General LeVaut Dodge, Department Commander of the Kentucky G. A. R., in his rounds visiting the Posts, attended the Seventieth Ohio Reunion at West Union, O., last week and was well pleased with his welcome and general hospitality of the town and old ex-soldiers of Ohio. The next reunion of said Regiment will be held in Rome, O., in October, 1909.

There are many old ex-soldiers that don't belong to any Regimental organization by reason of their old commands being too few and much scattered. Therefore, there is a proposition on foot to organize them into one body, including several counties in a section, and designate a place for an annual reunion. However, this proposition is not to do away with the Regimental Associations so long as they can remain organized.

SPRINGDALE.

Miss Jessie Scott of Portsmouth, Ohio, is visiting friends here.

Mr. George Allen returned the first of the week to his home in Selma, California, after a pleasant visit with his cousin, Mr. W. S. Fletcher. Mr. Allen was well pleased with our fair State, and as he is very fond of travel, expects to visit here again in the not distant future.

Thursday evening Mr. G. S. Judd was very pleasantly surprised by a party of friends and neighbors who gathered at his home to express greetings and good wishes on his sixty-seventh birthday. Mr. Judd's little friend, Master Ulysses Degman, whose birthday occurs on the same day, in behalf of the guests presented the guest of honor with a handsome umbrella. During the enjoyable evening refreshments were served. Among the guests present were Mrs. Degman and many others. From The Everett (Washington) Daily Herald, September 26th.

Mr. G. S. Judd was formerly a citizen of Maysville. His work as Sunday-school Superintendent has made him popular in Everett. On two former occasions he was the recipient of valuable presents, at one time a Morris chair and at another a handsome, gold headed cane. Master Ulysses Degman is a son of Captain U. P. Degman, formerly a citizen of this place.

NO MAN DELIBERATELY BUYS POOR CLOTHES.

He thinks their good, worth the money, or he doesn't want them. Just the same, lots of men are paying their good money for cheap, cotton mixed goods and they think they are being real economical because they get such clothes for a little less than all wool would cost. This cotton-mixed stuff is very deceiving, even expert clothing men find it difficult at times to tell whether or not a fabric has cotton in it. As for the inexperienced wearer, we've seen fabrics that looked good enough to sell for $20 for the suit that was at least 60 per cent. cotton and really worth about $6 the suit. You get no such "flim-flam" when you trade with us. Thirty years selling good clothes enables us to separate the "sheep from the goats." When we say all wool we live up to it.
